01 How to Use This Toolkit

A sales page is the one page that tells a customer everything about your product and asks them to buy. This toolkit gives you everything you need to write your first sales page that actually sells, even if you have never written sales copy before. Work through each step in order, fill in the templates, and at the end you will have a complete sales page ready to publish on your store, link from your Instagram bio or share on WhatsApp.

What's inside:

- 5–step sales page writing process
- Fill-in-the-blank templates
- Headline formula library
- Power words bank
- Call-to-action (button text) examples
- Objection-handling framework
- Sales page checklist
- Self-evaluation scorecard

02 Step 1: Research and Write Down Customer Language

Why This Matters

The best sales copy uses your customers' own words, not big English or office jargon. This research helps you understand how your ideal customers think, talk and describe their problems.

Research Checklist

Complete at least 3 of these:

- ☐ Read 20 or more reviews of similar products on Jumia or Konga (the middle ratings give the most honest feedback)
- ☐ Read comments under 5 or more competitor posts on Instagram and TikTok
- ☐ Check comments on 5 or more YouTube videos about your type of product
- ☐ Read conversations in Facebook groups, WhatsApp groups, Nairaland threads and X (Twitter)
- ☐ Go through your own WhatsApp chats with customers and note their questions

- ☐ Ask your existing customers a few short questions by WhatsApp or email
- ☐ Study competitor product pages and note what attracts you

Customer Language Template

Problem phrases (how they describe their frustrations):

1.
2.
3.
4.
5.

Questions they ask again and again:

1.
2.
3.

Words they use to describe solutions:

1.
2.
3.

Objections they mention (reasons they hesitate to buy):

1.
2.
3.

Results they are hoping for:

1.
2.
3.

03 Step 2: Create Your Sales Page Outline

Your Sales Page Blueprint

Use this structure for your outline. You will fill in the details in later steps.

1. Headline. Main benefit in 10 words or fewer:

2. Subheadline. Expand on your promise (15 to 25 words):

3. Opening hook (2 to 3 short paragraphs)

- Paragraph 1: Name the problem
- Paragraph 2: Show why the problem hurts
- Paragraph 3: Introduce your solution

4. Key benefits section. List 3 to 5 main benefits (you will expand these later):

Benefit	Supporting feature
1. _____	_____
2. _____	_____
3. _____	_____
4. _____	_____
5. _____	_____

5. Social proof section. What proof will you show that real people buy from you?

- ☐ Customer reviews (at least 3)
- ☐ Number of customers served or orders delivered
- ☐ Before and after photos
- ☐ Screenshots of happy WhatsApp messages (with permission, numbers hidden)
- ☐ Mentions by bloggers, influencers or the media
- ☐ Certifications, for example NAFDAC number for food, drinks and cosmetics
- ☐ Customer photos and videos (content made by your buyers)

6. Product details. What exact information do customers need? (Size, colour, ingredients, how long delivery takes to their city.)

7. Price, payment and guarantee. Price: ₦_____ Payment options (card, transfer, USSD, pay on delivery): _____ Guarantee or return policy: _____

8. FAQ section. List 4 to 6 common questions:

1.
2.

3.
4.
5.
6.

9. Final call to action. Your closing line and button:

04 Step 3: Write Like You Are Talking to a Friend

Friendly Writing Checklist

Before you start writing, go through these guidelines.

Do:

- ☐ Use short forms (you're, don't, it's, we'll)
- ☐ Speak directly to the reader (you, your)
- ☐ Ask questions the reader will answer in their head
- ☐ Use short sentences (10 to 15 words on average)
- ☐ Keep paragraphs to 2 or 3 sentences at most, because people read on small phone screens
- ☐ Share a short personal story when it helps
- ☐ Read everything aloud to check that it flows

Don't:

- ☐ Use technical terms or trade jargon
- ☐ Write sentences where nobody is doing the action ("orders are processed" instead of "we pack your order")
- ☐ Write long, complicated sentences
- ☐ Use office buzzwords
- ☐ Sound too formal or stiff

Headline Formula Library

Choose one formula and adapt it to your product.

Formula 1: Problem to solution "Finally, [get the result you want] without [common frustration]"
Example: "Finally, keep your edges full without spending a fortune at the salon"

Your version: _____

Formula 2: Transformation "Turn [current state] into [desired state] in [timeframe]" Example: "Turn your empty wardrobe into Sunday-ready outfits in one weekend"

Your version: _____

Formula 3: Number plus benefit "[Number] ways to [get the benefit] (even if [common objection])" Example: "5 ways to look sharp this Detty December (even on a small budget)"

Your version: _____

Formula 4: Question "What if you could [desired outcome] without [pain point]?" Example: "What if you could serve fresh small chops at your party without cooking all night?"

Your version: _____

Formula 5: Before and after "Stop [current frustration]. Start [desired result]." Example: "Stop buying perfume oils that fade by noon. Start smelling great all day."

Your version: _____

Opening Hook Template

Name the problem (paragraph 1). Use this template:

"Tired of [frustrating situation]? You're not alone. [A relatable everyday scenario that shows you understand them]."

Example: "Tired of buying shea butter that smells like candle wax? You're not alone. Many of our customers tried three or four sellers before they found us."

Your version:

Show why it hurts (paragraph 2). Use this template:

"The worst part? [Deeper consequence of the problem]. Most [target customers] try [common failed solutions], only to [disappointing result]."

Your version:

Introduce your solution (paragraph 3). Use this template:

"But there's a better way. [Product name] helps you [main benefit] without [main worry]."

Your version:

05 Step 4: Format Your Page So It Is Easy to Scan

Formatting Checklist

Most of your customers will read on an Android phone, often with slow data. Make the page easy to skim.

Text formatting:

- ☐ Paragraphs of 2 or 3 sentences at most
- ☐ A subheading every 150 to 200 words
- ☐ Bullet points for lists
- ☐ Bold text for key phrases (only 1 or 2 per section)
- ☐ Enough empty space between sections
- ☐ Body text large enough to read on a phone (at least 16px)
- ☐ Strong contrast between text and background (dark text on a light background)

Visual elements to include:

- ☐ Main product photo at the top
- ☐ 3 to 5 clear product photos
- ☐ Lifestyle photos showing the product in use
- ☐ Customer review graphics or screenshots
- ☐ Simple icons for the benefits section
- ☐ Comparison table (if it helps)
- ☐ Short demo video (if you have one; keep the file small so it loads on mobile data)

Benefits vs Features Table

A feature is what the product has. A benefit is what it does for the customer. Use this worksheet to turn features into benefits:

Product feature	So what? (Benefit)	How it makes them feel
Example: Double-stitched leather from Aba	Lasts for years, even with daily use	Proud and confident carrying it
1. _____	_____	_____
2. _____	_____	_____
3. _____	_____	_____
4. _____	_____	_____
5. _____	_____	_____

How to use this:

1. List your product features in column 1
2. Ask “So what does this mean for the customer?” and fill column 2
3. Ask “How does this make them feel?” and fill column 3
4. Lead with columns 2 and 3 in your copy, then mention column 1 as proof

06 Step 5: Show, Don’t Just Tell

Product photos you need:

Main photos:

- ☐ Front view
- ☐ Side or angle view
- ☐ Back view
- ☐ Close-up of key details (stitching, texture, label)
- ☐ Size reference (next to a common object, like a phone or a bottle of water)

Lifestyle photos:

- ☐ Product in use in a real setting
- ☐ Before and after
- ☐ Product with someone who looks like your customer

- ☐ Packaging or unboxing shot
- ☐ Several products together (if you sell sets or bundles)

Photo tips for beginners:

- Use daylight near a window, so you do not depend on NEPA light or a ring light
- Use a simple, clean background (a plain wall or a white cloth works)
- Set your phone camera to its highest quality
- Take several angles
- Show the product in real-life use
- Show size with everyday objects

Video Ideas

If you want to add video to your sales page, try these formats:

- ☐ 30 to 60 second product demo
- ☐ Customer review videos
- ☐ Unboxing
- ☐ Behind the scenes of how the product is made or packed
- ☐ Problem and solution explainer
- ☐ Comparison with other options
- ☐ Your story as the founder
